A Message from Public Advocate Betsy Gotbaum

Dear Friends,

I have made the well-being of New York City's almost 1 million seniors a focal point of my tenure as Public Advocate. I've visited you at senior centers and at events throughout the five boroughs. I've listened to your concerns and helped address your problems with city government, from housing to health care. It is with these experiences in mind that I've updated and expanded my Guide to Senior Services in New York City.

The purpose of this guide is to provide you with the information you need to access vital city services and programs that are out there to support seniors like you. You've worked hard and made a lifetime of contributions to your community. Now it's our turn to ensure that you have the resources you need to enjoy your golden years—whether it's transportation, legal help, or the opportunity to continue your education or volunteer your time.

As this guide shows, New York is a great place to grow old. I hope that you will use it and take advantage of all the resources that are available to you. And if you're having trouble accessing the city services and benefits you deserve, please don't hesitate to call my Senior Action Line (212-669-7250). We're always ready to lend you a helping hand.

Sincerely,

Betsy Gotbaum

Help with Housing

Finding and maintaining housing can present challenges to New York City's seniors. The programs listed below are devoted to helping older citizens manage this important issue.

Department for the Aging (DFTA)

DFTA publishes booklets for each borough listing housing options for senior citizens, including assisted living, enriched housing, adult homes, public housing, shared housing, Sections 202 and 8 housing, and family-type homes for adults.

Phone: 311 (to request booklets)

Web: www.nyc.gov/html/dfta/html/senior/housing.shtml

New York City Affordable Housing Resource Center

Affordable housing options for seniors can also be located at the NYC Affordable Housing Resource Center. The website provides information on a broad array of housing issues, including renting apartments and buying houses. The site also provides all of the City's affordable housing lottery listings.

Home Sharing Program, New York Foundation for Senior Citizens (NYFSC)

NYFSC provides free and confidential services to match renters who have extra rooms (hosts) with home-seekers (guests) in all five boroughs. Shared housing programs allow seniors to pool and maximize resources, sustain social interaction and provide mutual support. Either the host or the guest has to be age 60 or older (or age 55 or older if the guest is disabled).

Phone: (212) 962-7559

Web: www.nyfsc.org/

Project Share, Richmond Senior Services

Located in Staten Island, Project Share provides matching services to renters, age 62 or older, who have extra rooms with home-seekers for shared housing arrangements. Project Share also offers a shared living residence program. For this program, the agency rents a house or apartment, usually a three- or four-bedroom home. It then matches suitable applicants to live together in the home.

Senior Citizens Homeowner Exemption (SCHE)

SCHE provides an income-scaled tax reduction by reducing assessed property value by 5 percent to 50 percent for property owners who own and live in one-, two-, or three-family homes, co-ops, or condominiums. You must be at least 65, with an income of $35,400 or less to qualify. Call the Property Tax Customer Assistance line or download an application from the Department of Finance website.

Note: You may apply for SCHE and other exemptions individually, or you can use the “Exemption and Abatement Application for Owners,” which allows you to apply for six different tax reductions at once, including SCHE, STAR (see below), Veterans’ Exemption, Disabled Homeowners’ Exemption (DHE), Clergy Exemption, and the Cooperative and Condominium Tax Abatement.

Translations are available in Chinese, Creole, Korean, Russian, and Spanish.

Help with Utilities

Utility bills can add up to a large portion of seniors' monthly income. Seniors can take advantage of a several programs designed to make utilities more affordable.

Converter Box Coupon Program for Transition to Digital TV

Starting February 17, 2009, television stations will broadcast solely in digital format. Analog televisions that rely on an antenna will lose reception, unless an analog-to-digital converter box is connected. Between January 1, 2008 and March 31, 2009, U.S. households can apply for up to two coupons, worth $40 each, to be used toward the purchase of up to two digital-to-analog converter boxes.

Phone: (888) 388-2009 (TV Converter Box Coupon Program)

Web: www.DTV2009.gov (General Information)

www.dtv2009.gov/docs/Coupon_Program_App_en.pdf (Application)

The Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP)

HEAP helps pay fuel and utilities bills for people aged 60 and older whose monthly income does not exceed $1,876 (for one person) or $2,454 (for two people). Eligible households that pay directly for heat receive a once-a-year benefit amount ranging from $120 to $540. Eligible households that do not pay directly for heat receive a standard benefit of $40 or $50, depending on income. Emergency benefits are also available if an eligible household has less than a 10 day supply of fuel, or has utility service terminated or scheduled to be terminated. Applications are available in November—it is important to apply early because funds are limited.

(800) 342-3009 (NYS HEAP Hotline)

Web: www.otda.state.ny.us/otda/heap/default.htm

The Weatherization Referral and Packaging Program (WRAP)

WRAP is a federal program that helps seniors pay for their home energy-related needs. To qualify for WRAP, you must be eligible for HEAP (see above) and live in a 1- to 4-unit dwelling. If you are 60 or older, or on Social Security Disability, call the 311 and ask for WRAP.

Phone: 311

Life Line Telephone Service

Life Line is a program for low-income senior citizens that installs and maintains telephone service at low cost. To qualify for Life Line, you must be receiving aid from another government program. Contact your local telephone company to apply.

Staying Healthy

To obtain adequate medical care and purchase needed medications, seniors can rely on a number of programs offered by the Federal and State governments. New York City offers advisory programs that can help seniors make informed decisions about health insurance and provide financial support for prescription drugs.

Medicare

Medicare covers all senior citizens for basic hospital and medical services beginning at the age of 65. Part A provides hospital insurance, nursing home care, hospice care, and some home care. There are no premiums, but there are deductibles and coinsurance payments (i.e. patient payments above the deductible).

Part B provides supplementary medical insurance for doctor visits, many lab tests, durable medical equipment, ambulance transportation, and other costs. Part B is voluntary and requires payment of a monthly premium ($96.40 per month in 2008). Since January 2008, seniors with an annual income over $82,000 ($164,000 for a couple) pay a higher, income-scaled premium. Note that if you do not enroll in Part B when you are first eligible, you will pay higher premiums if you change your mind later.

If you are 65 and apply for Social Security benefits, you are automatically enrolled in Medicare. If you continue working past age 65, you will have to apply for Medicare if you want it.

For six months after enrolling in Part B, you are eligible for a preventive “welcome to Medicare visit” with a primary care physician. This visit is a comprehensive examination and includes education, counseling, and referrals, as well as a brief written plan with a checklist for obtaining appropriate screenings and/or other Medicare Part B preventive services. Deductibles apply.

Part C, or the Medicare Advantage Program, offers enrollment in private plans that provide Medicare-covered benefits. Advantage plans may offer additional benefits not covered under traditional Medicare, such as vision, hearing, preventive dental care, podiatry, and chiropractic care. However, plans may also charge additional premiums. You are eligible for Part C if you are entitled to Part A and enrolled in Part B. Annual enrollment periods are between November 15 and March 31 the following year.

Part D offers prescription drug benefits through private plans under contract with Medicare. You are eligible for Part D if you are entitled to Part A and enrolled in Part B. Annual enrollment periods are from November 15 through March 31. While plans vary with regards to costs and benefits, the standard plan in 2008 amounts to an average monthly premium of $31.99, a $275 deductible, and 25 percent coinsurance up to the coverage limit of $2,510. Past the coverage limit of $2,510, there is a coverage gap, also called the “doughnut hole.” Part D participants must pay 100 percent of drug costs out of pocket, while continuing to pay monthly premiums, between $2,510 and $4,050. Low-income seniors who cannot afford these costs may be eligible for assistance (see below).

If you do not enroll in Part D when you are first eligible, you will have to pay a permanent premium penalty if you decide to enroll later on, unless you had comparable drug coverage (so-called “creditable coverage”) during that time period (for example, drug coverage through a current or former employer or union).

Elder Pharmaceutical Insurance Coverage (EPIC)

EPIC helps pay for drugs for seniors (over 65) with incomes below $35,000 (for one person) or $50,000 (for two people). You can be eligible for EPIC even if you have insurance coverage for drugs through Medicare or most other plans (seniors with full Medicaid benefits are not eligible). Contact the EPIC Help Line.

Since July 1, 2007, seniors who are enrolled in EPIC are required to enroll in a Medicare Part D plan.. Enrollment in Medicare Part D will be auto-assigned, unless you respond to a letter sent by EPIC and specify a plan of your choice.

EPIC will help pay for Part D premiums, plan deductibles, co-payments, coverage gaps and drugs not covered by the Part D plan. For drug purchases, you can use Medicare Part D and EPIC together for lower co-payments. For details, contact the EPIC help line.

Home-Delivered Meals, Meals-On-Wheels Program

To receive home-delivered meals, you have to be at least 60 years old and unable to shop for food or prepare your own meals due to chronic physical or mental disability. In New York City, a network of senior centers and case management agencies provide home-delivered meals. To request meals-on wheels service, call the case management agency serving your local community or Citymeals-on-Wheels (see below).

Citymeals-on-Wheels

Citymeals delivers meals to seniors who are homebound and unable to prepare their own meals. Meals are delivered on weekdays, weekends, holidays, and in emergencies. To receive the service, seniors have to be assessed by a case manager. Call Citymeals at the number below to find the nearest case management agency for a referral.

Legal Help

Senior citizens are often subject to scams, discrimination, and fraud. In addition, seniors may need assistance with specific legal matters, such as drafting or executing a will or authorizing a representative to handle their business transactions. If you have been a victim of illegal activity or need other legal assistance, take advantage of the legal help available in New York City. Low-income seniors may qualify for free legal help.

A lawyer may advise you (the “Principal”) to designate a person of your choice (the “Agent”)--for example your attorney or a family member--to conduct business, such as signing documents and checks and managing your accounts, on your behalf. To do so, you need to sign a legal document called “power of attorney.” There are three different “powers of attorney”:

- A Nondurable Power of Attorney* is generally used for specific transactions, like the closing on the sale of property, or the handling of financial affairs while the Principal is traveling outside the country. A nondurable power of attorney starts immediately and ends when it is revoked or when the principal becomes mentally incapacitated or dies.
- A Durable Power of Attorney* enables the Agent to act on behalf of the Principal even after the Principal has become mentally incompetent or physically unable to conduct his or her own business transactions. A Durable Power of Attorney starts immediately and remains in effect until the death of the Principal, unless it is revoked.
- A Springing Power of Attorney* is a Durable Power Of Attorney that does not start immediately but “springs” into effect at a pre-specified future point in time, for example in the event of an illness or disability. A Springing Power of Attorney remains in effect until the death of the Principal, unless it is revoked.

Getting a Job

Finding opportunities to return to the workforce can present difficulties for older adults. Several programs offer assistance for older New York City residents who are looking for income or service opportunities.

Department for the Aging (DFTA)

DFTA provides programs for men and women (55 years and older) who want to return to the workforce full- or part-time.

- Food Emporium and Riese Restaurants Training Center

Prepares trainees for customer service sector jobs in food service, banking, finance, and tourism. Trainees participate in a 8-10 week program, which includes computer and online service training.

- Ageworks Computer Training

Teaches basic and intermediate skills in the Microsoft Office Suite (Word, Excel, and Powerpoint). The training prepares seniors for employment that involves data entry, word processing, and the basic use of the internet.

- Senior Community Service Employment Program

Provides on-the-job training in community service organizations. Participants receive hourly wages and benefits.

Phone: (212) 442-1353

Web: www.nyc.gov/html/dfta/html/volunteering/employment.shtml

Senior Training and Employment Program (STEP)

STEP is a 20-week full-time program that teaches office skills, typing, word processing, spreadsheets, business English, math, resume writing, interviewing, and job search techniques. The program is offered at locations in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, and the Bronx.

Phone: (212) 369-5523

ReServe

ReServe recruits and trains older adults interested in the public good to apply their lifetime work experience in stipend-paying positions with civic institutions. ReServe also provides placement and support on the job.

Emergency Preparedness

To prepare for emergencies, New York City seniors can rely on a number of publications and services targeted to their specific needs in an emergency situation.

Disaster Preparedness for Seniors Guide (American Red Cross in Greater New York)

The Disaster Preparedness for Seniors Guide helps seniors develop a plan of action in the event of a house fire, power outage, hurricane, or attack on the community. This guide is offered online in a printer-friendly version by the American Red Cross in Greater New York.

Website: www.nyredcross.org/page.php/prmID/206

Ready New York for Seniors and People with Disabilities Guide

This guide was collaboratively developed by DFTA and the Office of Emergency Management (OEM). It addresses issues specific to seniors and people with disabilities in the event of an emergency. The guide is available in English, Russian, Spanish, and Chinese. Call 311 for the guide on audio tape.

Phone: 311

Community Emergency Response Teams (CERT)

CERT Teams are composed of community volunteers who educate members of their communities about preparedness and, in the event of a disaster, handle initial recovery efforts until first responders arrive. OEM offers trainings for CERT teams on varied topics from fire safety to search and rescue. Older adults are welcome as CERT volunteers. Certain physical requirements apply. To find an existing CERT team, contact your local community board. Find your community board by calling 311.

Web: www.nyc.gov/html/oem/html/cert/cert.shtml

Carrier Alert Program

Participating seniors or persons with disabilities receive a special identification sticker or magnet to be placed inside their mailbox. When a mail carrier notes a cause for concern regarding a patron registered with Carrier Alert (stacks of mail, lights on, barking dogs), he or she reports it to 311 or 911 as appropriate. DFTA then checks on the senior and contacts family or emergency services as appropriate. To participate in the program call 311 or download a registration kit from DFTA's website.

Phone: 311

Web: home2.nyc.gov/html/dfta/html/senior/carrier_alert.shtml

In Case Of Emergency (ICE) Phone Campaign

First responders can save valuable time if they are able to quickly locate an emergency contact for a patient who is unresponsive. To aid first responders, you should program an emergency contact in your phone under the entry "ICE." To identify your phone as carrying this information, you can purchase an "icesticker" for $2.
